OU Theater Presents Second Performance

By Frances Campbell

At 8:30 tonight the curtain will rise on the second performance of "Life with Father." The show will be staged in the newly-remodeled auditorium on the first floor of the Administration Building.

The repeat performance tomorrow night will end the play's three-day run.

The production is being presented by the Omaha University Theater under the direction of Dr. Edwin L. Clark, head of the Drama Department. Prof. C. Harold Bush is the technical director.

Box Office Open Today

Tickets are on sale in the box office on the first floor of the Administration Building. The box office will be open today from 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and from 6:30 p.m. until curtain time on performance nights.

Holders of OU activity cards are entitled to one free ticket. The price of each additional ticket is $1.50. All reserved tickets must be picked up from the box office by 8 p.m. on the night for which they have been reserved.

"Life with Father" is the story of the Clarence Day family.

Scene Is 1880's

Its setting is a fashionable section of New York City in the late 1880's.

The plot centers around mother's never-ending attempts to pacify father—attempts which invariably produce comic situations.

Heading the cast are Ginny Dyas as Mother and Al Metcalfe as Father. Co-starring as the four Day brothers are Jim Pelowski, Don Houghton, Charlie Gifford and Kyle Taylor. Rounding out the cast are Merle Reiff, Karen Kleider, Norman Allen, Tom Hicks, Rollie Kreps, Neola Fontane, Jessie Gifford, Betty Bechtel, Beverly Merica and Lee Burrill.

Mike Landers and Mary Johnson are student assistants to the director.

Casting exceptionally friendly glances at Mary Skinner, played by Karen Kleider, is Clarence Day (Jim Pelowski). Unsuspecting onlookers are John Day (Dan Houghton), Aunt Cora (Merle Reiff), Mother (Ginny Dyas), and Father (Al Metcalfe).

Tomahawk Beauty To Be Chosen Dec. 6

The Tomahawk Beauty Queen will be chosen December 6, in the Conference Center Auditorium. President Milo Bail will present the winner with a bouquet of roses.

The contest is sponsored by the yearbook. Karen Pope, editor, is in charge.

Petitions for contestants are available in Room 250 of the Student Center. No single organization can enter more than four girls.

Constance Cowdery, recently crowned Queen of Ak-Sar-Ben will be one of the judges.

Contestants will be interviewed by the judges in street clothes from 11 a.m. to 12:30. A luncheon for the student and faculty committees in charge of the contest will be held from 12:30 to 1:15. The contest will be held from 1:30 to 3:30 in the Conference Center Auditorium.

Pat Shields will be the announcer. Mike Landers, Lynn McCallum, Bruce Bressler, and Jerry Gilmore will be escorts.

Last year's Queen was Betty McMichael, Alpha Xi Delta. Kathy Faulk Wehry, Alpha Xi Delta, and Vija Briedus were second and third place winners.

Hitchcock Awards To OU Students

The Gilbert M. Hitchcock Awards in Science were presented to two Omaha University students last Friday.

Suzanne Sipherd and Walter Nodean received $200 each. This award is given annually in the memory of Gilbert M. Hitchcock, founder of the Omaha World-Herald, to encourage the study of science.

Walter, a senior majoring in physics, received the award last year, too. He has a 3.92 grade average. This year he is president of the OU chapter of the Institute of Radio Engineers. He also belongs to Corinthians, Phi Eta Sigma, and Gamma Phi Sigma, chemistry honorary.

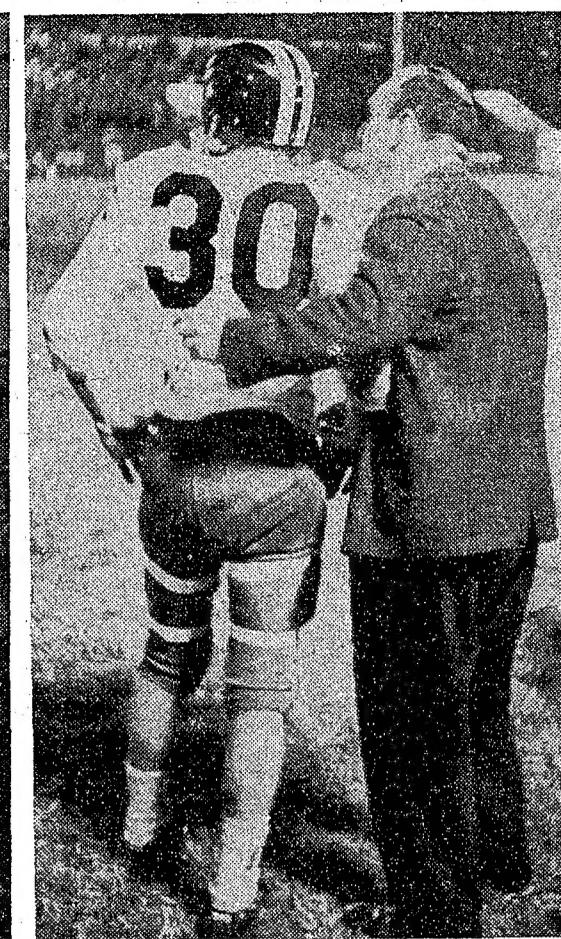

Suzanne, a junior majoring in biology, has a 3.8 grade average. She is president of Gamma Phi Sigma. She is a member of Corinthians, Alpha Lambda Delta, Chi Omega, and Angels' Flight.

Due to Thanksgiving vacation there will be no Gateway issued next week.

All classes will be dismissed for Thanksgiving vacation at 9:40 p.m., November 22. They will resume Monday, 7:30 a.m., November 27.

Louie Miloni and Carl Meyers were two Indian backs who stood out in the O.U. defeat at the hands of Pitt State. Miloni is shown taking a breather from the hard night's work, and Meyers is getting last-minute instruction from Coach Don Watchorn before returning to the fray.

Promotions, Resignations Approved Thurs.

The University of Omaha Board of Regents promoted 21 faculty members and rehired 20 others yesterday. The promotions are effective September, 1962.

The resignations of Frederick C. Weisser, instructor of engineering, and Curtis B. Selmers, assistant Dean of student personnel and instructor of speech, were accepted by the Board. Weisser's resignation is effective Jan. 31, 1962, and Dean Selmers, August 31, 1962.

Faculty Promoted

Eleven faculty members were given tenure with promotion in rank. They are: Dr. Paul Beck to Associate professor of history; Charles Bull to professor of business administration; C. Glenn Lewis to professor of business administration; Dr. Walter Linstromberg to professor of chemistry; John McMillan to professor and head of physics; Joyce Minteer to associate professor of business administration; Dr. B. Gale Oleson to associate professor of education; Cheryl Prewett to professor of engineering; Dr. George Rachford to professor of education; Paul Stageman to associate professor of chemistry; and Dr. Daniel Tredway to associate professor of education.

Members Rehired

The following 10 faculty members were rehired on an annual basis with a promotion in rank. They are: Burwell Beaman to assistant professor of accounting; Paul Borge to assistant professor of speech; Dr. Warren Gorre to assistant professor of speech; Russell Gorman to assistant professor and head of men's physical education; Peter

Top Award to OU

The Gateway has won the first place award for coverage of the United Community Services campaign for the second consecutive year.

The award was presented at a luncheon at the Castle Hotel Ballroom Tuesday by the Omaha advertising Club. Dr. Milo Bail; Paul Peterson, head of the journalism department; and Gail Grove, Gateway editor, represented Omaha U at the luncheon.

The Gateway was in competition with the papers from Creighton University and Duchesne.

Head Coach Caniglia Says Team 'Up for Drake Game'

By John Ritner

Although Omaha University's bid for its first Central Intercollegiate Conference football title fell short last Saturday, the Indians were welcomed home by about three hundred students, faculty members and athletic personnel Sunday afternoon.

OU President Milo Bail shook each player's hand as he stepped from the bus and later said "You played the No. 1 team and played very well. We're proud of you."

At the post-game pep rally, Head Coach Al Caniglia praised the students and student organizations for their effort in supporting the team throughout the season.

Although somewhat disheartened after a 34-18 defeat at the hands of Pittsburg State, Caniglia stated that he felt his grididers would be up for the Drake contest and that they "would be ready to play another good team this week."

In that game a Pittsburg crowd of 10,000 saw the Indians take a 12-7 lead in the second quarter, only to have Pittsburg come back with a 45-yard touchdown to take a 14-12 lead as the first half ended. This very well could have been a turning point in the contest as the Gorillas were never headed after this point.

The Indians scored 18 points against the Kansans which is more than any other team could muster against the No. 1 small college power this year. Pittsburg had previously given up only seven points in eight games this season.

The Gorillas showing a devastating ground game rushed for 286 yards to OU's 177. The Gorillas attempted only three passes.

Caniglia also had praise for his grididers for their effort in the contest. He singled out Glen Hepburn, Wayne Backes, Dean Taylor, Louie Miloni and Carl Meyers as doing yeoman jobs in the title contest.

The OU mentor felt that the Indians made a few too many mistakes in the contest and said we have played better ball at times this year.

The grididers meet Drake University tomorrow in the season finale at the University Stadium.

Advertising Club Presents UCS Award to Gateway

Reporters Tom Utts and Gateway Editor Gail Grove both agree—it was worth the effort. The plaque was awarded the paper by the Omaha Advertising Club for its efforts in publicizing the UCS drive held at OU this fall.

OU 'Galahads' Tow Automobile, Find Themselves Stuck in Rut

By Bill Grow

The sports-minded philosopher who stated that nice guys finish last didn't have Omaha University student Randall Parker in mind when he popped the phrase—but it may be tough to convince Randy of this.

Being a nice guy cost Randy a used car—in good shape—"and every time I look at my beat old clunker, I get a sharp pain here," he said, rubbing his stomach.

The story gets a bit complicated, but it stems from an "act of chivalry" committed by Randy and an equally hapless OU student, Dennis Madigan, following the Indian romp over the Emporia, Kansas, college football team several weeks ago at Emporia.

It seems news reached the two "happy" fans of a damsel in distress. A car owned by Marge Riley, another OU migrator, had "popped a piston" near Emporia.

"What a fate," the now-morose gentlement commiserated. "What can we do to help her out," they asked of several fraternity brothers.

"In our state of elation (the results of OU's win, Randy assured) many ideas came up, but we had to discard most of them," Randy said. "We were afraid there might be laws against pushing it off the road and burning it to get rid of a nuisance."

The following day "Galahad" Parker and sidekick decided to tackle the problem in earnest and came up with the only feasible answer of towing the crippled car back to Omaha, unbeknownst to Miss Riley, who had ridden back to Omaha with a friend.

"Our first problem seemed easy, find a tow chain," Randy said. After searching for several hours, putting up a two dollar deposit and promising the owner (practically in blood) they would mail the rusty chain back to him, Parker and Madigan were ready to start home.

The trip, about 150 miles, took eight hours. Parker was driving his 1952 Oldsmobile which sported six different colors, and, an a good day, coughed and faltered on a one per cent grade.

Madigan piloted the trim little '52 Chevy.

The distance between the two cars was about four feet "with the chain stretched tight."

"It wouldn't have been so bad except the Highway Patrol wouldn't let us use the turnpikes and that meant taking every backwater cowpath in the state of Kansas—and some in Nebraska," Parker said.

Even so, the daytime part of the trek wasn't too bad. "We had a set of hand signals which let me relay any traffic situation to Dennis so he could stop in time and not plow up my back bumper. He was driving blind," Parker explained.

But driving at night with a car four feet behind him proved to be an "experience" for Parker.

"And Madigan wasn't looking too good either when we got to Omaha," asserted Parker.

But with the aid of a flashlight, an ingenious signal system, and feminine co-pilots in each of the cars who fed the drivers cigarettes at ten minute intervals, the troupe finally straggled into Omaha at about 9 p.m.

"We just put the Chevy in front of Marge's house and went home to bed," Randy said.

The shock came the next day.

"Marge told me she had given up on her car and had decided to give it to me since I could have towed it to my parents' home in Kansas about 40 miles from where it broke down."

"I could have fixed it for practically nothing," Parker said with a quavering voice.

"Oh well, doing a good deed like that makes you feel kind of good right here," Parker said, patting this time just above the stomach.

Madigan said very little except that he thinks the trip gave him sufficient courage to try parachuting as a Sunday pastime.

Sat. Conference Topic: 'Language'

Omaha University will be host tomorrow to teachers, students and persons in Omaha and the surrounding area interested in the study of foreign languages.

The Fourth Annual Conference for Foreign Language Teachers begins at 9 a. m. with registration. The morning session includes group discussions, speeches and question periods.

Faculty Promoted

Hill to assistant professor of art; Carolyn Kundel to assistant professor of home economics; Jack Malik to assistant professor of music; Dorothy Patach to assistant professor of nursing education; Benjamin Stern to assistant professor of mathematics; Doris Tabor to assistant professor of elementary education.

Five Given Tenure

Five others given tenure of their present rank were Jane Andersen, assistant professor of art; Dr. Merle Brooks, associate professor of biology; Harold Davis, assistant professor of engineering; Dr. W. C. B. Lambert, associate professor of political science; Dr. Otto Snarr, Jr., associate professor of education.

Fifteen other faculty members were rehired on an annual basis at the present rank as indicated: Dr. Richard Allen, assistant professor of English; Michel Beilis, assistant professor of foreign languages; Paul Gardner, assistant professor of biology; Forrest Hazard, assistant professor of foreign languages; James Hosack, assistant professor of engineering; Dr. Herbert Jones, assistant professor of education; Francis Kelly, assistant professor of business administration; Dr. C. Robert Keppel, assistant professor of chemistry; Marion McCaulley, assistant professor of library science; David Moore, assistant professor of foreign languages; Kenneth Nehmer, assistant professor of art; Dr. John Newton, assistant professor of psychology; Melvin Olson, assistant professor of music; Dr. George Rothrock, Jr., assistant professor of history; James Taggart, assistant professor of music.

Next regular Regents meeting is scheduled for Thursday, Dec. 21.

Official Notices

Students planning to graduate in January 1962, should make application in the Registrar's Office, Room 220 in the Administration Building. The fee for an undergraduate degree is $10, and $15 is charged for a graduate degree. No applications will be accepted after December 15.

Upperclassmen and those students taking CAE classes for credits are reminded to confer with their counselors about midsemester scholastic reports.

Students planning to pre-register for second semester, 1961-62, may do so the week of December 4-8. If registration is not made during this week, students will have to wait until February 2, 1962.

Letters to the Editor Type Grading Methods Unfair

Dear Editor:

In my early impressionable years at this institution, (I can safely say this since I have spent more years here than the average student does, or should) I encountered a situation in one of my classes which seemed completely unfair.

To get to the point which may seem small and petty to some, I am speaking of a certain elementary typing course which has a "rule" stating if you have had typing before, you must type at a faster rate than a "beginning" or innocent student.

To get to my own sad, boring story, (I will make it short) I took typing my sophomore year in high school. After that, aside from one or two term papers, (which I usually had typed by someone else anyway) I never used a typewriter until I came to OU. Now, granted that teachers have (and should have) some prerogatives in teaching their courses, this one instance seems to me to be unnecessary.

Compare for a moment some other example of how this ruling would work in other courses. Suppose a student who has lived in Spain for a number of years. He can still take an introduction to Spanish course, and is not expected to do any more than any other student to get an A, B or even F.

And the student who is excellent in math: he is not given a test to determine his skill and then a certain goal is set up for him above the average student in the same course.

Or an art student, who has had experience is not expected to paint a picture comparable to something Van Gogh painted just to pass the course.

Therefore, a student is going to be given greater heights to hurdle because of past experience, then that past experience should be evaluated and the goal set up should be in accordance with this.

If this cannot be done then the same standards should apply to all students.

Educational Diet

Word is going around about a new study method used by Bootstrappers.

It works like this:

First study the assignment, taking extensive notes. Take notes on all material covered in class. Study notes and concentrate them on a smaller piece of paper.

After more study, reduce them to a three inch by five inch card. Finally, just before the test, inscribe notes on a cigarette paper.

Then roll the paper into a tiny ball—and swallow.

Anon.

Sportsmanship?

There's nothing like good sportsmanship at a football game, or the lack of it!

The 75 to 100 students who attended the Omaha University-Pittsburg game received various examples of this.

An area between the 20 and 30 yard line on the west side of the grandstand was supposedly reserved for OU students.

However, when OU students arrived at the stadium, the Pittsburg fans invaded the OU section and began an endless barrage of harassment which lasted throughout the entire game.

Any OU latecomers arriving at the game were told "too bad, find somewhere else to sit" when they approached the OU section full of Pittsburg fans.

We, the OU fans who attended the game at Pittsburg, wish to say "thanks for the hospitality."

Beyond B—30

By Ken Zimmerman

How important is class attendance?

Are rigid rules necessary? Is education enhanced by their enforcement?

Approaching these questions from the standpoint of grades on this campus, a Gateway feature writer last spring surveyed a number of instructors and discovered (to no one's surprise) that presence in class does indeed play an important role in determining a student's grade.

With rare exception, the faculty insists on a crowd of bodies for their lectures.

It was found that the student who warms his chair for 50 minutes (or 75, depending on what day of the week it is) has gone a long way toward a passing grade.

The lengthy feature, however, produced no statistics to validate the policy. No comparative test scores were there to assert that the so-called conscientious student who slept through every class was soaring to intellectual achievement while the slovenly shirker who studied religiously every night but missed a few sessions sunk to illiteracy.

Could be that it just ain't so. Now that we've established that this column is biased, let me quote from an editorial which appeared in the October 27 Creightonian (a publication distributed periodically at Twenty-third and California Streets).

European colleges and universities, the writer points out, the student registers for a class and need not attend the lectures at all. He must pass the examinations to gain credit. The student must decide whether he can do it without attending classes. The professor is always present at the assigned hour to teach the class. If less than five students attend, the class is then a question and answer period. This arrangement has been executed for many years and is very effective."

She goes on to explain: "After the second week of classes a student should be able to realize if the class lecture will be pertinent to passing the course. This system, if adopted, could benefit both students and faculty."

This scribe (her name, according to the byline, is Letitia Ruda, in case you want to send any fan mail) also fails to give any concrete examples but she does take a stand seldom heard around these hallowed halls.

The dissertation concludes with what may be fighting words to faculty members.

"The faculty would have more incentive to prepare their lectures, for the present policy at Creighton gives the professors no competition. A professor knows that students must attend his classes, and therefore many are dull, off the subject, or mere re-peats of previous years."

To emphasize that point, the editorial bore the headline: "No Incentive for Faculty?"

So there you are. Can you glean a quality education with greater emphasis on presence or essence?

A few years ago, our noted Dr. Tom Bonner conducted a history course (as I recall, under the auspices of the Ford Foundation), which laid the stress on extensive and varied outside reading. There was virtually no class work, only voluminous library research.

It was, I felt, a significant project in these times of overcrowded universities. It also offered an approach to the study of history seldom found in survey courses—an unbiased report, or rather, a cross-section of many biased ones.

But, alas, such progressive thinking was up against an apparently unsurmountable wall of traditionalism. It didn't get very far.

The seeds of revolt must remain subdued in the minds of a few reactionaries.

School Spirit Spreads Over OU Campus

By Pamela Stronberg

We have it!

It's contagious. You can see it spread from our own President Bail, a long-time "victim," to the now only faintly-green freshmen. Even the semi-sophisticated upperclassmen have caught it.

You can see it everywhere—in the nippy air at football games to the smoke-filled Ouampi Room. It is called "School Spirit" and is one of the best things that could happen at Omaha University.

This spirit has lain dormant the past few seasons on our campus; but with the combined elements of an enthusiastic student body and faculty, a football team that is figuratively unbeatable, and the aroused interest of the Omaha citizenry, it has risen to new heights.

Recently several downtown businessmen have been overheard saying that they are switching their allegiance from the University of Nebraska to OU.

No one person or group is responsible—school spirit could not be lost if this were true. All deserve credit—Dr. Bail, the faculty, the Bootstrappers, the Greeks, the Independents, the Unaffiliated, the band, Indianans, cheerleader, Inter-pep, the "O" Club and, of course, the team.

Our football team consists of 44 hardworking students who give their time, risk injury and stop smoking so that OU can prove to itself and others that our school wants intercollegiate athletics and should continue in the Central Intercollegiate Conference ranks.

There are three more team "members" that deserve unlimited credit—Coaches Caniglia, Watchorn and Fischer.

Assisting them are the unglorified but not forgotten heroes of the sidelines—the student manager, equipment manager, trainer and the game announcer.

Another "team" that outranks the players in beauty and grace are the nine cheerleaders. These girls, along with the traditionally nimble-footed Ouampi and our newest addition, "Little Ouampi," lead the fans in school cheers at all our games during both the football and basketball seasons.

Still another group of shapely spirit stimulators are the Indianans. Risking rain, wind, snow and wolf-calls, these coeds perform with the band in pre-game and half-time shows. Much time and effort is put forth by both the band and Indianans and neither group can be overlooked in this list of OU boosters.

The Inter-pep Committee, in conjunction with the Student Council, sponsors athletic-linked events. Its members represent each major interested organization on campus and both groups have greatly contributed to the increase in school spirit.

Lost and Found Department Has Varied Accumulation

By Fran Campbell

Some pretty coed is undoubtedly running around with watery eyes and a runny nose these days.

Some husband might be in the doghouse with his wife, some students are having to resort to bobbypin methods of opening locks and some students are groping around in an "unfocused" world because a trench coat, a man's wedding ring, dozens of keys and several pairs of glasses are included in the items in the Omaha University Lost and Found Department.

Failing students might have excuses. The Departments is giving a home to approximately 50 lost text books, in addition to numerous notebooks and pens.

Girls who have been getting the cold shoulder from their steady since they lost his ring, should check with the Department—they have several.

One superstitious student has probably lost all faith in charms after losing the set of keys which he had equipped with two rabbit's feet.

Many articles of clothing ranging from sweaters and scarves to shoes and belts are going to waste because they lay unclaimed. Jewelry and cosmetics patiently await the return of their "lost" owners.

For those as-of-yet-uninformed students who are interested in knowing where this unique place is located, the secret is out. It's in the bookstore!

Relocating a lost item is a simple process. Just walk up to the clerk, tell her what you've lost, and describe it.

The bookstore keeps a continuous record of all items returned to them. A signature is required as a security measure on all claimed goods.

Now that the secret is out, why not take advantage of this service?

CAE Sponsors Print Exhibition

"The American City in the Nineteenth Century," as depicted in 55 original Currier and Ives prints will be featured in the Gene Eppley Conference Center Nov. 20 to Dec. 8.

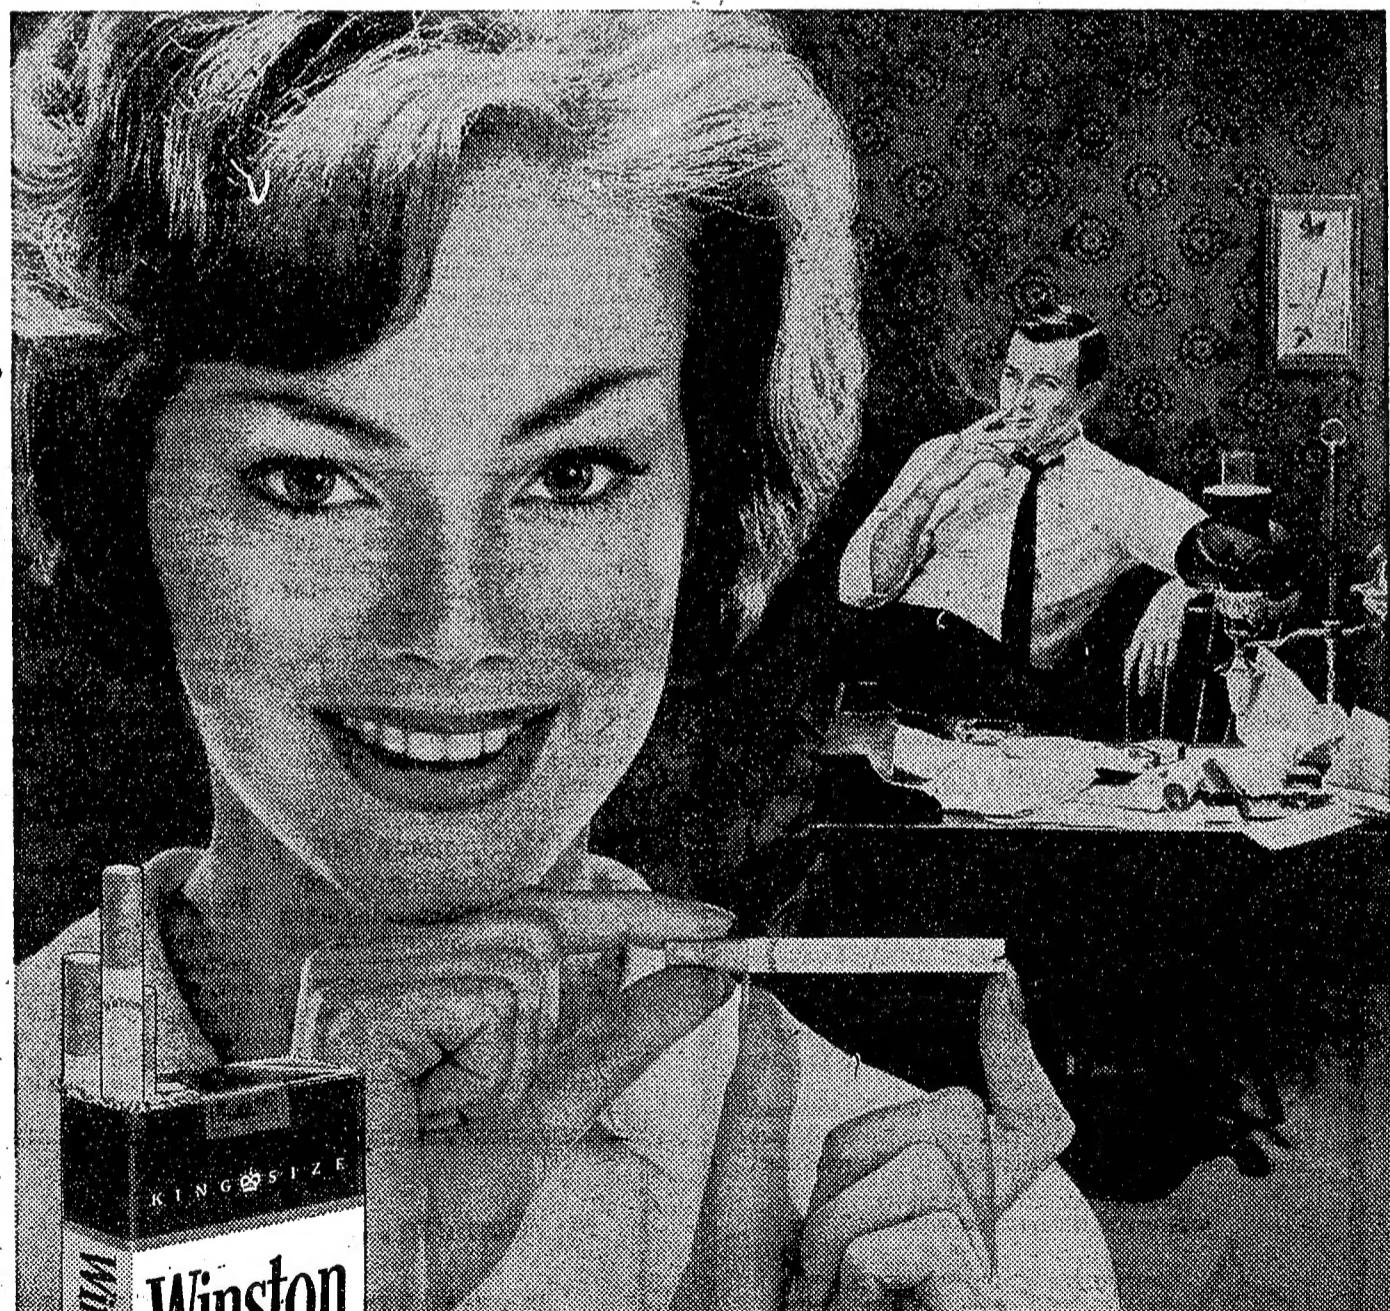

The collection, property of the Library of Congress, is being shown as part of the Smithsonian Institute's "Traveling Exhibition" service. The OU showing is sponsored by the College of Adult Education.

Changes which occurred in American cities during the Nineteenth Century are shown.

Rome Influences December Dance

Saturnalia, a Roman festival, is the theme of the Sophomore dance. It will be held Dec. 1, from 9 to 12 p.m. in the ballroom of the Student Center.

All students are invited to attend. Casual clothes will be worn. Luther and the Night Riders will play for the dance.

Dance to End Grid Schedule

The close of this year's football season will be marked by a reception and a dance in the Student Center.

An open house and reception sponsored by Dr. Milo Bail and Henry Harmon, the president of Drake University, will be held following the Omaha U-Drake game Nov. 18.

Approximately 500 invitations have been sent to alumnae and parents of Drake University students.

The reception will be held in the ballroom of the Student Center.

An informal dance has also been planned. The dance, sponsored by Student Activities, will be held in the Oaumpi Room from 4:30-6 p.m., Nov. 18.

Pledges Will Host Actives at Party

Chi Omega pledges will host actives at the annual pledge-active party, to be held this year at the Riverview Park pavilion Nov. 22 from 5:30-9:30 p.m.

As in the past, the party will include a buffet supper; and the theme, costumes and entertainment will be kept a secret from the actives until the night of the party.

Lambda Chi Plans Rose Formal

Lambda Chi Alpha will hold their annual White Rose Formal Saturday night. The affair will take place at the Sheraton-Fontenelle hotel at 6:30 p.m.

During intermission this year's Crescent Girl will be announced. The co-ed which will be named Crescent Girl was elected by a secret fraternity vote. The Lambda Chi's Honorary pledges will also be named at this time.

Greg Minter, social chairman, is in charge of the dance. Master of ceremonies will be John Gaffney.

Dr. and Mrs. Milo Bail, all deans of students, and all faculty sponsors are invited to attend.

The Carl Jay Orchestra will play.

'O' Club Initiates Athletes Dec. 3

Forty-one athletes are eligible for initiation into "O" Club this semester.

Assistant football coach Kenneth Fisher and head basketball coach James Borshiem will be among the new members.

Those eligible include last year's track, basketball, baseball and golf lettermen and this fall's football lettermen.

The initiation will be held in the field house approximately 3 p.m., Sun., Dec. 3.

Tribute to the Team

By GAIL BROWNING

The past years were bad; this much is true,
And people all said we were definitely through,
But then came a group with a full head of steam,
And proved working together makes a great team.

We've got a grand coach, and a great bunch of boys,
A stand full of spectators, and plenty of noise.
But this isn't the year to capture the crown,
Unhappily Pittsburg put us way down.

But our hopes are not dampened, our spirits are high,
We know we can do it, we have but to try.
To the guards, the tackles, the linemen, the ends,
We give you our thanks, from all of your friends

The game is not easy, this much we know,
You really have put on a tremendous show.
So here's to the boys in the black and the red,
Who wouldn't get anywhere, or so it was said.
They proved they could do it, they really knew how,
Congratulations team, please take a bow.

Co-eds Can Be Famous, Queen

Any co-ed with beauty, brains, personality, and charm is eligible. She may nominate herself—or be nominated by an interested party or group.

What for?

For the National College Queen Contest. Any group or individual may enter a candidate by writing for an entry blank to: National College Queen Contest Committee, Suite 1606, Paramount Building, 1501 Broadway, New York 36, New York.

'O' Club Sweater Dance Postponed

The "O" Club Sweater Dance has been postponed indefinitely.

When Omaha University Activities Director William Gerbracht learned that the "O" Club planned to sell tickets, he said: "It is an OU policy that no organization be allowed to hold an event at which tickets are sold, when the organization anticipates making a profit."

The Sweater Dance has been postponed because of the lack of funds. It will be held later in this semester or early next semester.

'Angels Go to Church'

A Go-to-Church Sunday and brunch is scheduled for members of Angel's Flight on November 19 at Offutt Air Force Base.

Catholic services will be held preceding the brunch and Protestant services immediately after. Full-dress uniforms will be worn. The annual event was planned by Operations Officer Dianne Barker.

Chi O's Sponsor Tea For All Bootstrappers

Chi Omega is sponsoring a tea Sunday for Bootstrappers and their families.

It will be held from 4:30 to 6:30 at the Commercial Savings and Loan Building at 4503 N. 30th St.

Kathy Orr is in charge of the tea.

Ginnie Dyas was announced as the 1961-62 Dream Girl of Pi Kappa Alpha Nov. 11 at the annual Garnet and Gold Ball, held in the Garden Room of Kiewit Plaza.

AKD Reorganized On OU Campus

Alpha Kappa Delta, a national honorary sociology fraternity, has reorganized on the Omaha University campus.

A student must have an accumulative "B" average, ten hours of sociology, and a junior standing.

Officers of the fraternity are David Staffeld, president; John Ballweg, vice-president; Dottie Price, secretary, and Alice Kurz, treasurer.

All those majoring or interested in sociology are invited to attend the monthly meetings. The next meeting will be Dec. 13.

Anyone who doesn't meet all requirements may become a "neophyte" member.

Faculty Hear Golden

Harry Golden, columnist and author of three recent best sellers, will be presented to the faculty and staff at the President's coffee hour November 17.

The coffee will be held in the Student Center Ballroom at 4 p.m.

Rehearsing dances, choreographing new steps, and fitting and designing costumes have been on schedule for Orchesis members the past three weeks in preparation for their annual concert.

The curtain goes up at 8 p.m. on the finished production, "An Evening of Dance," in the University auditorium Dec. 1 and 2.

The program opens in a Latin American flavor as male and female dancers take to jazz in "Rhythm Road," choreographed by Karen Kleider.

John Harding, Tom Hicks, Jim Howard, Louie Miloni, and Ken Petersen take their cue in "Wrong Number," arranged by Nancy Norton.

"Lonely Crowd" gets its title from a wood sculpture created by Cecil C. Carstenson. This art object was loaned to Orchesis from Joslyn Memorial Art Museum for the concert.

Full length velvet dresses of the 16th century set the mood for two court dances of the same period in "Pre-Classical Dance Forms." This number is choreographed by Linda Dooley, sponsor of Orchesis.

Tom Hicks, dressed as the Classical Clown; Lynnette Forbes, depicting the Music Box Ballerina; and Linda Hill, costumed as Raggedy Ann, appear in "Danse Des Marionette Poupee." The puppets in this toy shop dance are designed to appeal to the Christmas-minded children.

"Dance at the Gym" taken from the Westside Story is the final number. Choreographed by Linda Jelen and Midge Butters, the dance features the whole troupe representing two rival factions—the "jets" and the "sharks."

"Bus Stop," a dance pantomime; two jazz trios; a religious number expressing the adoration of the Magi; an Irish folk dance and a lyrical ballet complete the program.

The outstanding member of Orchesis, selected every year by a vote of the entire troupe, will be announced at the Dec. 2 performance.

This year no tickets are required for admittance. Both shows will be presented free to students and the public.

Corinthians Gain Fifteen Initiates

Corinthians, junior-senior scholastic honorary, initiated the largest group in its history last night at a banquet in the Student Center.

All of the 15 initiates were juniors. Requirement for the honor is a 3.5 scholastic average for two consecutive years.

Those initiated were: Richard Alexander, Fred Anderson, Susan Archer, Revé Bell, Marjorie Kunkel Colon, Sandra Decker, Irene Kelly, Nancy Lindell, Laurie McCann, Gladys Nelson, Mary Paulson, Judith Rinschen, Suzie Sipherd, Jolene Snyder and Olon Zager.

Dr. George Rothrock of the history department gave a talk on "Opportunities for Foreign Employment" at the banquet.

Military Students Invited to Dance

Bootstrappers from the University of Omaha have been invited to the annual fall party of the Reserve Officers Association Nov. 17.

The reception, dinner and dance will be held at the Sheraton-Fontenelle Hotel Ballroom.

Rear Admiral F. Julian Becton, new commander of the Naval Reserve Training Command at Fort Omaha, will be honored at the affair.

Ronald Reagan, television and motion picture star, will be the guest speaker.

The affair is semi-formal.

Delta Sigs Elect Pledge Officers

Officers of Delta Sigma Pi, a professional business fraternity, have been elected.

They are as follows: John Blacketer, a junior accounting major, president; Rich Butler, a senior personnel major, vice president; Keith Helms, senior accounting major, secretary-treasurer, and John Wilson, junior accounting major, sergeant-at-arms.

The pledge class will be formally activated on December 10. Freshman pledges will not be activated until after the close of their first semester.

Jon Nelson and Paul Schwartz are the pledge trainers and hold the office of Senior and Junior vice president respectively of the fraternity.

OU's Alpha Xi's Host UN Chapter

The Omaha University chapter of Alpha Xi Delta will entertain their sister chapter from the University of Nebraska this Sunday afternoon.

The function has been scheduled in the Student Center, rooms 312 A and B from 2 until 5.

The chapter has decided to have the function on campus so that their visiting sisters may see the campus.

Lee Burrill and Toni Turnquist are in charge of entertainment while Sue Hornish is handling all other arrangements.

Ronald Pullen to Talk to Education Students

Ronald Pullen of the Audiovisual department will speak to the Student Education Association November 22. The meeting will be held in the Student Center, Room 312 at 3:30 p.m.

S.E.A.'s major objective is to acquaint students with the profession of education. The sponsor for the group is Dr. Joseph Dunn, professor of education.

WRA Members Fill Baskets for Needy

Thanksgiving baskets will be donated to needy families in Omaha by members of the Women's Recreation Association at Omaha University.

Canned goods with 10 or fifteen cents attached may be placed in a basket in the West Quonset hut. Promotion for this annual project is done by the WRA Board.

PiKA's Plan Shindig

The Pi Kappa Alpha Pledge-Active Party will be held Saturday night at 8 p.m. in the Carter Lake Improvement Club.

Entertainment will be provided by the pledges. Pat Shields will be master of ceremonies.

Noe Griffith and Willie Wakefield will be in charge of preparations for the party.

Chemical Society Field Trip Today

The Student Affiliates of the American Chemical Society will visit the American Smelting Co. today.

One group will leave at 2 p.m. and the other at 2:30 p.m. All will meet at the chemistry department.

Anyone interested in joining the club may attend the field trip.

Phi Chi Theta Pledges Six Members Tuesday

Phi Chi Theta, the women's business honorary, pledged six new members at a ritualistic ceremony last Tuesday.

The new pledges are Leonora Connelly, Marjorie Dohse, Marsha Havlu, Nancy Kautz, Michale McAlexander and Darlene Utterback.

Another rush by the honorary will take place in March.

Health Service Least Known But Most Helpful of Activities

By Marilou Thibault

The Health Service, located on the second floor of the Administration Building, is one of the least-known yet most helpful services offered by the University.

The staff consists of Dr. G. M. McArdle, Mrs. Eichorn, R. N., and Mrs. V. Stephens, R. N. Dr. McArdle is in the Health Service office from 8 to 10 each morning and in the fieldhouse from 3 to 6 each afternoon during football season.

The purposes of the Health Service are: (1) to administer physical examinations to students, faculty and staff; (2) to administer first aid; (3) to recommend the form of exercise or competition safe for the individual participating in PE with a "B" rating; and (4) to aid in the formation of good health habits for the student body, staff, and faculty members.

Each semester physical examinations are given to all incoming freshmen.

They may be rated A or B.

An "A" rating means that the student is fit to participate in all PE activities. A grade of B designates that there is some deviation from the normal such as hypertension or a heart murmur.

Students with B ratings are rechecked during the year to see if the condition has become normal. If it has not, the student is enrolled in a restricted physical education class.

Food service employees are given examinations every six months. The cafeteria and kitchen are inspected several times during the school year.

Health pamphlets are available in the Health Service office to use in reports and research papers.

Last year OU was credited with the donation of 135 pints of blood to the Blood Drive.

All charts on students in competitive sports are kept in the department.

Immunization shots for ROTC cadets were given during the school year of 1960-61. Polio and flu vaccine shots are available to all who want them for $1 each. A total of 261 immunization injections were given last year.

In 1960-61 the Health Service gave a total of 2,002 physical examinations.

These were grouped in this manner:

Students, first semester...1,229
Students, second semester 146
Kitchen employees 20

Baratta Will Receive $200 Insurance Award

James R. Baratta was the recipient of a $200 insurance scholarship this month.

The scholarship was awarded by the Omaha Association of Insurance Agents. A faculty committee of the college of business administration approved the award.

Baratta is a senior insurance major who works part time in the insurance business.

Rev. Haviland to Talk At Canterbury Meet

The Canterbury Club, the Episcopal youth group for college students, will meet Sunday, November 19 at St. Andrew's Episcopal church at 6:30 p.m.

The Rev. Donald Haviland will speak on "The Reformation in England" and all Episcopal college students are invited to attend.

Sigs Eps Throw Party

The Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity date party will be held tonight 8-12 p.m., at the Polish Home.

The party planning committee is chairman, Roger Moore; assistant chairman, Gary Masil; art chairman, Mike Kisgen; Kenny Edwards is in charge of refreshments.

Staff members 105

New employees 82

Rechecks 11

Late physicals 145

Athletic physicals 157

Last year there was a total of 146 accidents: 63 were attributed to employees, 83 to students off the campus.

Accidents occurred in physical education classes, intramural sports, chemistry labs, parking lots, and buildings on campus. Twenty-two accidents occurred off the campus.

Seventeen elevator permits were issued during 1960 and 201 excuses were issued for absence from 176 classes.

An average of 48 patients use the Health Service every day for medical aids from aspirin to injections.

The Health Service is financed by a health fee assessed to the students.

'Flossies' Will TKE Host Red Carnation Ball

A mixer for nursing and engineering students will be held tonight at the Methodist Hospital auditorium from 8 to 11.

The theme of the party is the "Flossie (Florence Nightingale) Frolic." Entertainment will include ballroom and square dancing and a 45-minute program presented by student nurses from Immanuel, Clarkson, Jennie Edmundson and Methodist hospitals.

Members of the Independent Student Organization have also been invited.

Sponsors of the mixer are the nursing school faculty from Methodist Hospital and OU nursing and engineering instructors.

A private mail box at the OU Post Office may be secured through the postmistress. Rental is $1 per semester and 50¢ for the summer.

Tonight Tau Kappa Epsilon will be the host at their annual Red Carnation Formal to be held at the Omaha Athletic Club.

Dinner will be served at 7 p.m. followed by dancing. The Dave Kavitch combo will play for the affair.

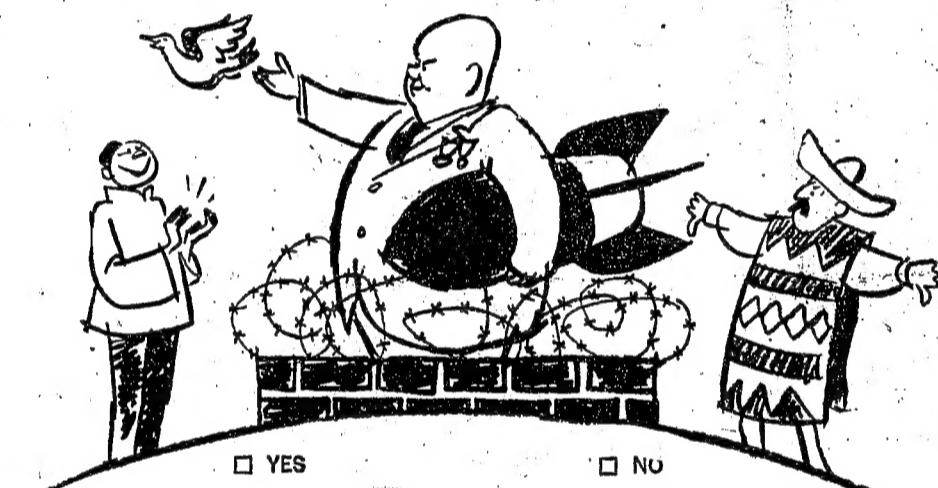

Highlighting the evening will be the naming of the TKE Sweetheart for 1962. The announcement will be made during intermission.

This year's candidates are: Judy Vondra, Chi Omega; Becky Boehmer, a student nurse at Clarkson Hospital; Kay Dean Hatfield, and Mary Beth Meyers, Zeta Tau Alpha. The reigning Sweetheart will receive a bouquet of Red carnations from the fraternity.

Lynn Jeffries, president of the organization, and Gary Rogers are in charge of preparations for the evening. The pledge class will make the table decorations.

Yelkin's Name Mentioned for Nebraska Post

Virgil Yelkin's name again popped up a possible candidate for the athletic directorship at the University of Nebraska.

Articles in both the Daily Nebraskan, NU student newspaper, and the Lincoln Journal listed the Omaha University Athletic Director as a possible candidate for the position that has been vacant since Bill Orwig left the post to take a similar job at Indiana University in April, 1961.

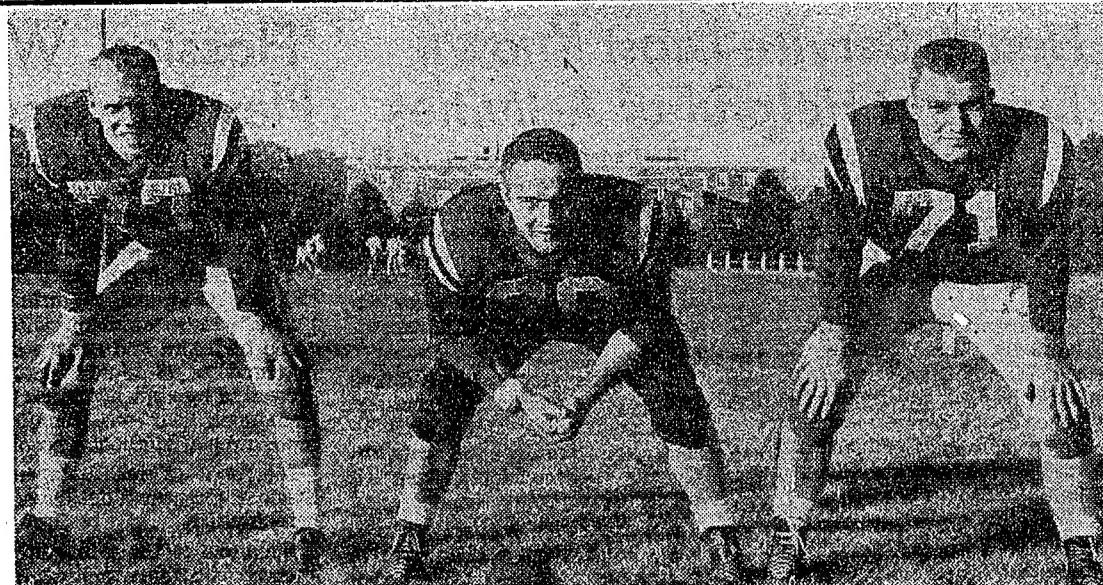

"There is a grass roots movement—if grass roots extend into Omaha—backing Virgil Yelkin for the Athletic Directorship at the University of Nebraska," the Lincoln paper said.

The article went on to say that "Adding Yelkin's name to the list of candidates for the Athletic Directorship probably gives the Board of Regents Committee more fodder to chew on."

"Probably the only two who would be in the picture—either from their standpoint or the University's—would be George Sauer and Yelkin."

Sauer along with Yelkin is an NU alum.

Yelkin has not been contacted in any way concerning the matter.

$10 Reward Awaits Some Lucky Person

A $10 reward awaits the person who found a purse at the Washburn game and turned it in to the Athletic Office.

Athletic Director Virgil Yelkin said someone in a letter jacket turned in the purse owned by a Mrs. Shadle of Columbus, without leaving his name.

If the unknown person would like to collect an easy $10 he should contact Yelkin in his office in the Fieldhouse.

Indian Cagers Prepare for Initial Contest

By Mike Moran

The thump of leather on wood and the shrill blasts of a whistle late in the afternoon coming from the fieldhouse area indicate that basketball is in full swing on the Omaha University campus.

With the season opener against Peru State of the Nebraska College Conference only a short time away, Coach Jim Borsheim and his Indian cagers are burning the midnight oil in preparation for the invasion of the always talented Bobcats on December 2.

Coach Borsheim will admit that the current Indian squad will be short both in experience and size but that a little spirit and determination can overcome these handicaps in short time.

OU basketball boosters are hoping for an influx of the spirit and drive which propelled the Indian footballers to an unexpectedly brilliant campaign after a number of previous dismal seasons.

Borsheim, who fine record at Dakota Wesleyan made him one of the South Dakota Intercollegiate Conference's most successful coaches, feels that the Omaha squad has talent as fine as any club in the CIC and that the Indians will rise far above the bleak 3-19 record of last season.

WRA Softball Players Lack Enthusiasm?

By Carol Vetter

Where were the softball players?

WRA softball was a complete flop this season. Twenty games were scheduled while only two games were actually played. Of these two games, one of them ended in a tie and was rescheduled at a later date. With the arrival of this date, a double forfeit resulted.

One game was actually played and completed in the Women's Recreation Association schedule, yet there has been a champion declared. Unaffiliated is the softball champion as the result of absolutely no completed softball competition. Why are they champions? Because they at least had the required number of players present for each of their games except for a final forfeit. Their closest competitor, Chi Omega, forfeited three contests.

Each team of the five-member league was scheduled for only four games in the tournament. Some of these teams were unable to produce seven players at any of their games.

Joan Jorgensen, sponsor of the WRA, stressed the lack of enthusiasm and interest shown by participants in the program. It is up to each organization to see that they have enough players at each of their scheduled contests. If this is impossible, the organization should not enter the competition.

Miss Jorgensen commented on the good turnout in WRA tennis and bowling compared to softball. It seems to be the organizations that are not emphasizing the importance of participation in the WRA.

The WRA is the only organization on campus for girls to gain any physical activity outside of their physical education classes. Miss Jorgensen said, "How can you become physically fit, emotionally stable, and socially acceptable without participation in recreational activities?"

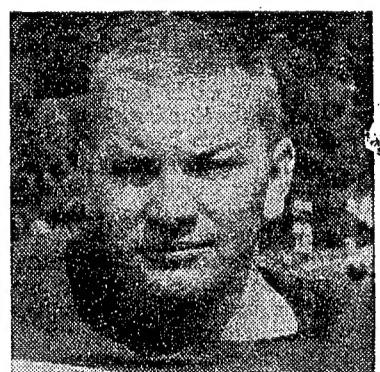

Indians Seek Seventh Win

Omaha University, after its disheartening defeat to Pittsburg State, takes on Drake University tomorrow in the clubs' first meeting in history.

The Bulldogs from Des Moines, Iowa, have compiled a mediocre 4-4 record this year but have met stiff competition in the eight games. The Bulldogs lost to Wichita University last week 26-13. The Indians have won 6 and lost 2.

Duane Salek, an all Central Intercollegiate Conference performer last year, will miss the final test. The junior guard suffered a broken hand in the title contest with the Gorillas from Pittsburgh.

Three OU seniors, Art Ferguson, Jim Howard and Al Taylor, will be making their last appearance in an Indian uniform in tomorrow's game.

Eight Game Statistics

Omaha University fullback Wayne Backes carried the main offensive load in last week's encounter with Pittsburg.

The sophomore carried 16 times for 63 yards as OU concentrated on power plays.

Roger Sayers, used mainly as a decoy through most of the contest, carried only eight times for 42 yards. His rushing average is now 10.7 yards a carry.

Basketball Opens in Fieldhouse Tuesday; Lams First in Bowling; Sig Eps Win Race

Intramural basketball opened its season Tuesday night in the Fieldhouse with 22 teams making up three leagues.

There are eight teams in leagues one and two with six teams listed in league three.

Intramural Director Bert Kurth says that this is the first time that he knows of that there has been so many teams that three leagues had to be set up to handle the situation.

All three of the opening games played Tuesday could have gone either way they were so close.

In the 6 p.m. game Theta Chi edged the Hilltoppers 24-22. It took the Leeches an overtime to beat the Panthers 31-30.

In the last game of the night the Zeke Moe Joes squeaked past the Blacksheep 35-33.

Bowling

The Lams coasted to a four-point win over Iota Delta and increased its league lead to three points over second place Fiji.

The Crew, second last week, dropped to third with Lambda Chi (2) one point behind in fourth place.

Brad Epstein had the high series with a 585 on games of 197, 207 and 181. Epstein's team, Drum) ran the race in 22:08 to better the old record of 24:06 set by Lambda Chi last year.

The P.E. Majors were second; Pi Kaps third; the Panthers in fourth and Lambda Chi fifth.

An unusual event took place in this race that one man ran the whole race by himself.

J.S. Chapman figured that this was a good chance to get a work-out with some stiff competition. Although he didn't beat any of the teams, he did finish with a good time of 28:25.

Flag Football

The Zeke Moe Joes took its second straight intramural flag football championship with a 26-0 win over the Spartacus Flyers.

The Zeke Moe Joes compiled an 8-1 record to take the title over the Sig Eps and the Joy Boys who finished with 7-2 records. Lambda Chi was fourth at 6-3.

The TKEs took second place in the interfraternity standings by taking a 7-6 decision from the Pi Kaps. The TKEs finished at 2-1.

The Sig Eps were first at 3-0.

Gateway Staff Will Entertain

Ten Hastings College journalism students will visit the Omaha University campus December 1. An exchange of ideas with OU journalists is the purpose of the trip.

In the morning, the students and Keith McMillan, director of public relations at Hastings, will attend the "blood bath" (the weekly critical review of the Gateway by faculty advisor Paul Peterson).

Workshop Set for Visitors

During the afternoon they will tour the campus and take part in a workshop with editors of the Gateway.

Editor Gail Grove will explain her editorial duties. The problems of co-ordinating the different departments of a newspaper will be discussed by Bill Vogt.

How society and sports news is covered on a college campus will be discussed by Mary Beth Myers and John Ritner. News Editor Sharon Johnson will explain how news assignments are gathered and assigned.

Carole Seibert will explain copy reading and headline writing duties of a copy editor. Make-up editor Arlo Grafton will discuss how the lay-out is composed and what work is done at the printers.

An informal dinner in the Student Center is planned. The group will tour the World-Herald in the evening.

KQAL to Carry Talk by Utley

William Utley, head of the political science department, will discuss the contributions of political science to our modern society at the Nov. 23 presentation of the Legacy of Man series.

On Nov. 30 Dean Robert Harper of the College of Liberal Arts will discuss the significant contributions of American literature to our society.

Both will be broadcast on KQAL-FM from 9:30 to 10 p.m.

Trio in Madrid For Workshop

Dean Donald Woods of CAE, Assistant Dean O. W. Snarr and Ben Zeff, SAC education director, arrived in Madrid November 13 to conduct the first of their military education workshops in schools associated with American military education programs.

They arrived from Washington, D. C., where they had been participating in an adult education and military conference since November 5.

Two more workshops, one in London and one in Morocco, will be conducted before their return shortly after Thanksgiving.

No CAE Counseling For Average Grades

No counseling will be conducted for those in the College of Adult Education whose mid-term report indicates average or above average work.

Cards will be sent out to the students whose grades are low and who should be brought in for counseling.

Counseling will be held in the mornings of the week of November 20.

Noted Humorist To Talk at OU

Harry Golden, writer, editor and publisher of the "Carolina Israelite" will speak at the seventh University Nights program tonight at 8 p.m. in the Eppley Conference Center.

Mr. Golden received nationwide attention a few years ago when, at the height of success of one of his books, "Only in America," he disclosed the fact that he had served a federal prison term for using the mails to defraud.

The response was tremendous. People, friends, known and unknown, flocked to his support. His book and fame skyrocketed and the demand for personal appearances became a deluge.

Mr. Golden will use the title of his book, "Only in America," as the topic for his lecture.

Utley Speaks At Institute

The final lecture of the 16th annual Institute of World Affairs was presented Wednesday by William T. Utley.

Mr. Utley, professor and chairman of Omaha University's political science department, spoke on "Crisis and Challenge in the '60s—in Summation."

The theme of the series was "Crisis and Challenge in the '60s." Previous lectures discussed the situations in Berlin, Africa, Latin America and Red China; as well as the prospects for peace.

Quintet to Perform At Music Convention

The Omaha University Woodwind Quintet will present a concert in Fremont Nov. 17 at the Music Educators National Conference Statewide Convention.

The convention is being held in conjunction with the Nebraska Music Educators Association Convention and Clinic.

The Quintet, directed by Kermit Peters, includes Diane Shannon, flute; David Busch, oboe; Tom Bogacz, clarinet; Pat McCaig, bassoon, and Steve Gould, French horn.

OU's MENC Chapter, Student Chapter 437, is sponsored by Raymond Trenholm. Mr. Trenholm is chairman of the college division of MENC in Nebraska and chairman of the Student Concert for the convention.

Carol Contest Applications Due

Applications may be made for the Christmas Carol Contest in the Music Building. The carols must be completed and turned in by Nov. 30.

On Dec. 13 the OU choir will present the carols in the Student Center Ballroom at 3:30. At this time three faculty judges will select the winning carol.

The winning carol will be sung at the annual Christmas convocation later.

The contest is sponsored by Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, men's music honorary. Any student carrying 12 hours is eligible to enter the contest.

Words may be taken from any appropriate script, but the music must be original.

Seniors Visit Omaha Firms

About 200 Omaha U seniors were the guests of 15 Omaha business firms Tuesday at the Senior Executive Day.

Seniors who signed up to tour the Union Pacific Railroad went to the Omaha Steel Works because the Union Pacific dropped out of the program this year after the registration.

United Air Lines was the first business to fill its quota during registration.

The day was spent listening to executives speak on the history, capital structure, personnel, markets and profit picture of their company.

Each business firm served the seniors lunch and provided transportation to and from the University.

'Balloonmail' Fights Winds, Gateway Receives Answers

Cedar Falls is located about 275 miles northwest of Omaha.

The Omaha Weather Bureau reports that on November 4, the day the balloons were launched, there was a cold front with a strong southerly wind on the surface. A few thousand feet above the cold front, there was a warm air current from southwest to northeast, which carried the balloons to Cedar Falls.

The Weather Bureau spokesman said the balloons would have to reach a height of four to five thousand feet to catch this northeast wind.

More Parking Space Ready

University of Omaha students should have access to some 160 new parking stalls this morning.

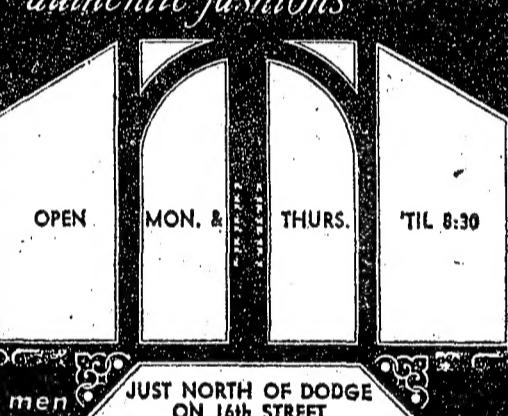

Dean Naylor, Dean of Administration said, "the contractor who is building the new lot said that the lot would be open today, weather permitting."

On Tuesday the only work that remained to be done was some back filling around the concrete curbs.

The new lot will be free, with the only regulation being that cars parked in the lot must have an OU parking sticker.
